

Changes to Specification

Design 1

There was a design change in the template layout, switching both:

- The navigation from left-side column to top row (under header)
- The newsletter form from right-side column to bottom row (above footer)

This was discussed with the client in a live development situation so no extra designs were drawn.

Design 2

The mobile gallery page was made to display paintings in rows of 3, rather than one at a time. This was for ease of viewing and was overlooked in the original documentation.

Design 3

Animation on the website (jQuery) was not part of the original specification, however was required and so was included in the form of hovering captions (gallery), and a 'hide-able' navigation in mobile view.

Copyright

All paintings are owned by Paul Klee, and the website is owned by Hubert Humperdinck.

Other images, videos, media is void of copyright as this is an educational assignment that will not be made public.